Market Study:Users/Customers

Methodology:

- Interview and questionnaire-based study with potential users.

Key questions:

- Was this app easy to navigate between different categories?
- What features do you like about using this app?
- What features do you dislike about using this app?
- What other features would make this language app more engaging for you?
- Was this app helpful in your daily situations in France?
- How much would you pay for this app?
- Do you recommend this app to other international students like you?

Questionnaire

Competitors:

Key apps: Duolingo, Memrise, Google Translate, Babbel.

Features comparison:

- Duolingo: Gamified learning, global reach.
- Memrise: Emphasis on memory techniques.
- Google Translate: Instant translation but lacks context-based learning.

User Gaps Identified:

- 75 percents of respondents felt existing apps lack focus on repetitive daily phrases.
- 40 percents noted existing apps often do not provide cultural context or real-life scenarios.

Detailed Analysis of User Behavior

Key Insights from Feedback:

Ease of Use:

- Most users find the app easy to navigate, though some suggest improvements in interactivity.

What Users Like:

- Practical and daily-use phrases
- Simplicity in design
- Focus on real-life situations

What Users Dislike:

- Audio quality and loading time were noted as areas for improvement.
- Advanced content for specific use cases (e.g., university, business) is in demand.

Key Insights from Feedback:

Purchase Likelihood:

- Willingness to pay ranges between €3 and €6.
- Most indicate interest if the app stays affordable.

Comparison with Other Apps:

- The app is appreciated for its focus on repetitive, practical phrases.
Quote: "Other apps like Duolingo are good, but they don't focus on practical communication."

User Feedback of Application

```
8/10    6
7/10    5
6/10    3
9/10    3
Name: Satisfaction, dtype: int64
```

Monetization Plan:

- Offer the app at an affordable price (€3–€5).
- Consider a freemium model to attract more users.

Key Findings:

- Users value practical phrases and simplicity, but demand better audio quality and advanced features.
- Competitors focus on gamification or broad learning, leaving a niche for context-specific practical learning.

Decisions Based on Feedback:

Priority Updates:

- Improve audio clarity and speed
- Add content for advanced scenarios (e.g., academic and professional settings).

Differentiation Strategy:

- Maintain a niche focus on everyday life phrases for expats and international students.
